

Son Who Failed To Heed Mother's Plea Is Caught

The second suspect in the shooting death of a 19 year old shipping clerk was picked up by Columbus police last week after he failed to heed his mother's plea and turn himself in.

James H. Walton, 22, one of two brothers facing charges in the death of Mark Patterson, was asked by his mother to "please turn yourself in and save your family further torture of worrying about your safety."

Sgt. John Shawkey said Walton was picked up last Wednesday when police arrested another suspect wanted on a series of traffic violations. He said Walton was a companion in the Walton's mother, Mrs. Pearl Walton, 1224 E. Huber Ave., had appealed earlier for her son to turn himself in. Mrs. Walton, who is under doctor's care for a heart condition, said it would be best for Walton to give up.

James Walton's brother, Charles J., 27, is being held in connection with the same shooting, police said. He is charged with one count of involuntary manslaughter and one count of aggravated robbery.

Elusive 'Tommy' Sought In Strangulation Death

A man known as "Tommy" is being sought by Columbus police in connection with the strangulation death of a 26 year old pregnant woman. Police said that a man has called several times saying he would come in for questioning but has failed to do so.

Sgt. John Shawkey said

witnesses have said the man, allegedly the victim's boyfriend, was the last person to see Deon Yancey, 317 N. Garfield Ave., alive.

Ms. Yancey, 26, was eight months pregnant when she apparently died from strangulation, police said. Police said emergency crewmen who arrived at the scene were unable to detect a heartbeat in the fetus.

Shawkey said details of the killing are sketchy and that they had no suspects at CALL & POST deadline Tuesday night.

Police told the CALL & POST that the woman's body was found clad in a car coat and nude from the waist down in a weeded area near Village Green apartment complex near Joyce Avenue.

The police are apparently being slowed because they have not been able to determine a motive for the woman's murder.

Police said they learned that the man known as

Burke Killing Sparks $11 Million Lawsuit

As behind the scenes talks continue in trying to resolve the issue of Columbus police use of deadly force, it was learned by the CALL & POST that a $11.1 million lawsuit will be filed in federal court with police and city officials listed as defendants.

The suit will charge that Keith A. Burke, a 16 year old black, shot and killed by Officer Allen Zecickey last Dec. 24, had his Constitutional and civil rights violated an attorney in the suit said. The suit will be filed this week he said.

Meanwhile, the United Black Front has called for a community rally for 2 p.m. Saturday at Union Grove Baptist Church, 266 N. Champion Ave., where state Rep. Phale D. Hale is the pastor.

Charles Ross, a spokesman for the Front, said the rally is to continue the black community's effort to have city officials address the issue of excessive use of force by Columbus police against blacks.

NAACP INVOLVED

It was also learned late Tuesday that the Columbus Branch NAACP will hold a press conference Thursday morning to make several recommendations in dealing with police and community relations and communications.

In part the recommendations request the assistance of the National NAACP and its legal counsel regarding alleged civil rights violations of Burke and others. The NAACP will also request the U.S. Attorney General and U.S. Justice Department to convene a full investigation of the use of deadly force in the Burke shooting.

COUNCILMEN ACT

Last week, black Columbus Councilmen Jerry Hammond and Dr. John Rosemond, requested the Justice Department to conduct an investigation. It was later reported that the Justice Department had already authorized the area FBI office to proceed with an investigation.

During these events, Pat Glenn, a conciliator with the Justice Department's Community Relations Division in Chicago, has been meeting with city officials and representatives of black organizations in an effort to resolve the controversy, in which a black police group has charged that Burke was murdered. The Chief of Police and Franklin County Coroner Dr. William Adrien have ruled the shooting death justifiable.

Ms. Glenn pointed out that she is not acting in a role of investigator, but as a mediator "attempting to keep it (the question of excessive force by police) from becoming a black and white confrontation."

ADVISORY BOARD

City Councilman Charles Mentel has suggested establishing an advisory board to monitor police actions.

WANTS CORONER IMPEACHED Black, White Police At Odds; Feds Investigate Burke Death

The recurring charges of excessive use of force by the Columbus Division of Police against black citizens have resulted in black organizations calling for a formal investigation by the U.S. Justice Department and one group saying it would begin circulating petitions to impeach the Franklin County Coroner.

Black City Councilmen Jerry Hammond, Dr. John Rosemond, along with the Ohio Black Political Assembly and the Columbus Branch NAACP, have requested the Justice Department to investigate the shooting death of a 16 year old black.

Columbus Division of Police on March 1.

The Saturday demonstration will be held at the Sheraton Hotel, 50 N. Third St., and will be presented by September and Associates of Tukwila, Wash. It will begin at 9 a.m. for police and at 1 p.m. for non-uniformed community residents.

Black organizations sponsoring the demonstration include the Columbus Urban League, CMAAO, the Inter-Denominational Ministerial Alliance, Hilltop community residents, Columbus Branch NAACP, and the Division of Community Relations of the U.S. Department of Justice.

Since the shooting death by police of a 16-year-old black youth last Dec. 24, blacks have been meeting with Chief Earl Burden in an effort to resolve alleged police brutality in the black community. The shooting has been ruled justifiable.

Thousands Join Heart Fund Drive In County

Over 50 Heart Fund volunteers, including family members and friends, attended the annual East Area Kickoff for the February fund raising campaign held Saturday at the Franklin County Heart Branch office.

These volunteers will be among thousands of persons canvassing their neighborhoods this month distributing life-saving information and collecting money to support research, public and professional education and community service programs of the Franklin County Heart Branch.

The goal for this year's drive has been set at $110,000 for the door-to-door campaign and at $320,000 for the entire drive including business and industry solicitation.

"Heart disease is still the nation's No. 1 killer and accounts for more than half of all deaths from all causes each year," said Albert Hawkins, chairman of the door-to-door campaign in the east area of the city.

Hawkins, who has been a Heart volunteer for 20 years, told the group about the cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) program offered through the Heart Branch. While standing at a bus stop some years ago, he suffered a major heart attack and was saved by a passerby who knew CPR. He encouraged

OMA Turns Thumbs Down On Proposed Admissions Policy

The Coordinating Council of Minority Affairs passed a resolution Monday demanding that the open admission policy within State universities be continued as long as Ohio high schools graduate ill-prepared students.

"Should these programs be discontinued, a significant number of minority students and white students would lose the benefits of these programs," said Dr. Frank W. Hale Jr., vice provost for Minority Affairs at Ohio State University.

"It would be a mockery to require competency tests of students to determine whether they have mastered the basic skills in reading, writing and calculating unless some equitable way is also devised to test teachers in order to evaluate their comprehension of subject matter, their instructional methods and

Chair Reclining Can Sustain Life

Reclining in a comfortable chair can save a life at the American Red Cross Blood Center, 995 E. Broad St., particularly when you are a pheresis donor. Pheresis is an unusual kind of blood donation.

Instead of giving whole blood, as in a regular donation, a specific component of blood is given. Pheresis can yield platelets, very small sticky cells that provide the first line of defense against excessive bleeding. Pheresis can also yield white cells which are absolutely necessary in fighting infection. Leukemia and other cancer patients are the principal recipients of platelets and white cell transfusions—their cancer therapy kills normal, healthy cells, as well as their cancer cells.

Open seven days a week, 24 hours a day, the pheresis unit even functions on Christmas if needed to sustain a life. A large number of committed donors are needed for pheresis. The Blood Center maintains a list of about 450 active donors, but many more are seriously needed.

Columbus resident Otto Thomas is a regular pheresis donor. As of November, Otto had made his eighth pheresis donation. "I was a whole blood donor. Pheresis helps provide for a very special need—a need that I have the time to fulfill," Thomas said.

Pheresis is an extremely efficient way of sharing blood components. A unit of whole blood contains less than an ounce of platelets, and six to eight donations from six to eight individuals would be necessary to equal one pheresis transfusion.

OSU Dance Company Sets Performances At Mershon

A revival of Doris Humphrey's renowned "Day on Earth" will highlight the winter performances of the Ohio State University Dance Company scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 28, Friday, Feb. 29 and Saturday, March 1, at 8 p.m. in Mershon Auditorium.

Originally choreographed in 1947 by Doris Humphrey for the Jose Limon Dance Company, "Day on Earth" is being mounted by Lucy Venable, professor of dance at OSU.

The rich, emotional, modern dance is set to the music of Aaron Copland's "Piano Sonata," played by OSU graduate piano performance major Viscount Thurston.

The addition of live music and visual arts to the year's dance performances will enliven the program. "Countdown," choreographed by Sheldon Ossosky, assistant professor in the Department of Dance, will integrate sculpture pieces by Columbus artist

Chris Steele into the fabric of the dance.

The popular OSU Jazz Ensemble will join in the theatrical spectacular to produce a highly energetic celebration of the jazz beat.

Columbus sculptor Jonathan Gilbert has created the masks and set pieces of a surrealistic landscape of human relationships. "Flight From Time," choreographed by associate professor of Dance Rosalind Pierson.

Rounding out the program of contemporary American dance and music is a lighthearted work set to a medley of Gershwin tunes by Company director Vera Blaine, entitled "Spare Change." In this light-footed and snappy dance Ms. Blaine has captured the spirit of an earlier era.

Before the performances each evening, Irene Meltzer of the Dance Department will give an illustrated lecture preview of the dance concert in Rehearsal Room 8 in Weigel Hall at 7 p.m. Ms. Meltzer will discuss the choreographic styles and backgrounds of the dances to be performed.

Tickets for the performances are available through the Mershon Ticket Office, 422-2354. Discounts are available each evening to students, groups and Golden Buckeye Card Holders. In addition, Thursday is special discount night for all.

Robertson's Concert Is Flowering Perfection

A Review
By LUCIUC E. LEE

Certainly Jon Robertson is the greatest concert pianist to come to Columbus in many days. It is one thing to play a flawless piano program and quite another to make every note have its instant recitation, although embellished by flowering beautiful sound groupings. This was only one characteristic of the Robertson recital at Mershon Auditorium Feb. 13.

The program opened with "The French Suite" by Bach. Bach is a composer this writer can only take with discrete measures and few at that, but the pianist's firmness of touch had the piano singing the music.

So many pianists are mechanical with the 17th and 18th centuries master of the keyboard composition. Robertson, the son of a former Columbusite of some years ago, was well schooled by the Juilliard School of Music and private teachers.

"The Sonata No. 1" by Louise Tema was the commanding number in its forte demands, intricate fingering and constant tonal nuances like a full orchestra crescendo--but suddenly a whispered murmur.

The enjoyable number was the Debussy, "Pour Le Piano." All artists include a Debussy number which will win applause. Debussy can be exacting but not for Robertson, whose every finger carried exquisite expression to the keyboard.

But there was no absolute flawless playing in the evening's concert. The artist could not execute a run in Chopin's "Nocturn in E Flat Major" as smoothly as it should be. That run is familiar to all fine arts devotees and the hesitancy in the run was detected easily, especially after so many other flawless runs.

There was generous applause which returned

Grace Community Sets Up Linda Moore Trust Fund

A month ago today, tragedy struck the west side of Columbus leaving Linda D. Moore dead. She had three young children.

The members of Grace Community Independent Methodist Church, where Ms. Moore and her children were members, decided to establish The Linda D. Moore Memorial Trust Fund, with her children as beneficiaries.

A collection just short of $1,000 was raised at the site of the funeral as a public response of an appeal made by Ms. Moore's pastor, the Rev. J.B. Harris.

With the assistance of Attorney Webster Lyman Jr., the trust fund was structured and the process of incorporation was begun.

The trust fund trustees are presently organizing a booster club, which would raise $1,500 annually in a fund raising effort. The fund raiser would be to perpetuate the fund and to expand its growth and financial stability.

Rev. Harris is advisor to the trust fund, and Lyman is the attorney and trustee of the fund.

Other persons involved with the fund are William Harris, chairman of the fund; Mary Reed, Ms. Moore's aunt; Diann Stevens, fund consultant; George Faulkner, treasurer of Grace Community; Doris Preston, Ms. Moore's mother; Gwendolyn Herrell, fund secretary; and Franklin County Treasurer Dana G. Rinehart.

Methodists Consider Course Of Action For World Health

Special to Call & Post
NEW YORK—Despite churches and other non-governmental agencies spending enormous resources on health care throughout the world, four-fifths of the world's four billion people lack access to any permanent form of health care assistance, according to the United Methodist Church.

This discrepancy and what churches should do about it was put to churches and their agencies at the first Symposium on International Health Work held here recently under the auspices of the United Methodist Health and Welfare Ministries Division (HWMMD).

Dr. Duvoyn Corbitt, executive secretary for overseas medical service, HWMMD, acknowledged in opening the symposium that participants might divide on method but not on motives and ultimate goals. "We have unity in a sense of the overwhelming need, our concern and love for people, and our commitment to the Christian gospel," he said.

The purpose of the meeting was to see what the Church needs to do in light of "changes in the world and in ourselves," he said.

By the end of the first afternoon it was already apparent the participants were sharply divided by their strongly held positions on medicine vs. health, curative vs. preventive, hospital-centered vs. community-centered programs.

In the rather disparate group were directors of Christian medical colleges and hospitals in India and Korea, hospital directors from Argentina and Zaire, the head of a community health care program in Nicaragua, the world's foremost authority on leprosy, and North Americans specializing in missions, academic research and procurement of medical supplies to be sent abroad.

Dr. Daniel Fountain, an American Baptist doctor in Zaire, said all agreed the church should be involved in health promotion. "Its unique resources are urgently needed. But to apply those resources requires reorientation of methods and relationships. Many churches are caught in the curative approach. The bed is too short and the blanket too narrow," he said.

He called for changes in both informal and formal education, saying "education must begin with us." He also stressed that

"health for the community must involve the community at all levels."

Dr. Fountain's emphasis on community health care was seconded by Dr. Julio Monsalvo, a Methodist who directs a government hospital in Chaco, Argentina. He quoted the conclusions of a landmark World Health Organization (WHO) conference in Alma Ata, USSR, in September 1978. It said: "Primary health attention is the key to reaching an acceptable level of health for all by the year 2000."

Dr. Monsalvo urged the Church to examine how it is using its resources and to set a health policy designed to achieve "sanitary objectives for all the population, and well being for all."

Admitting The Truth

Lately, there has been much controversy over the part Negroes play in sports and their treatment.

There is no question, that while the doors to playing are now wide open, at the same time, the opportunities to coach and manage are still tightly closed.

Of all the great players, past and present, especially in football and baseball, only two have been given even so limited an opportunity to manage a baseball team (Frank Robinson at Cleveland and Larry Doby at Chicago) and, none at all in football.

In a recent press interview, Frank Robinson, whose only opportunity to manage was in Cleveland, said: "I thought it (managing) would be slow but steadily opening up. But baseball has gone backwards. It's like they've said to themselves, Okay, we've had one Black manager. The heat is off, back to business as usual."

Further, Frank Robinson said, "I think a lot of teams have Black coaches only as window dressing -- When I went to Baltimore to coach in 1978, I was given nothing to do. NOTHING!"

Perhaps it's about time that Blacks in sports realize that, despite the big salaries they are earning, and the many accolades heaped upon them by the public and news media, that, in the final analysis, they are Black like the rest of us, subjected to all the same discriminations and explanations.

So, it's about time for all of them to come back into the Negro race with its ghettos and all else, and join in with the rest of us in fighting our common foe, American racism.

A Major Accomplishment

Last Wednesday, another link in the chain of Rogers' Super Valu markets was opened at 14524 Euclid Ave. Ordinarily this would not be of any unusual interest.

But, when you visit this newly opened market, you will stand in awe at its breathtaking appearance. Then, when you hear about the kind of ceremony that opened the new shopping facility (vintage Hollywood plus), the important fact that this million dollar facility is owned by a young Black man, then, the realization of this accomplishment becomes apparent.

Heading the ribbon cutting ceremonies was Jayne Kennedy, the former Dean Martin "Ding A Ling" star, now co-anchor of CBS sports, plus a good mixture of interracial leaders.

This super-market is a long way from the neighborhood grocery store on E. 105 St. where Steve Rogers began his career. And, this store is the newest of several others that he operates.

Clevelanders can be proud of the accomplishments of this Black businessman. The beauty and fine appointments of his new store, it stands out as one of the finest in the area.

We congratulate Mr. Rogers on this, the newest link in his chain. He deserves the support of the entire community.

Stamp In Black Heritage Series Honors Banneker

The 15-cent commemorative stamp honoring astronomer and mathematician Benjamin Banneker was issued in Annapolis, Maryland, on February 15, during the nationwide observance of Black History Month. The first day of issue ceremony was conducted at the Asbury United Methodist Church at 11:00 A.M.

Banneker (1731-1806), freeborn in Baltimore County, Maryland, was a pioneer American scientist and mathematician. At the age of 22 he constructed a wooden striking clock and in later years became both a noted astronomer and surveyor. He computed almanacs for a number of years and served as scientific assistant to Major Andrew Ellicott, appointed by President George Washington to lay out the 10-mile square for the Federal Capital in the District of Columbia in 1791.

Pinkney's portrait of Banneker dominates the design and forms the background against which other elements are displayed. In the foreground is a full length portrayal of the scientist with his surveying tools.

The stamp is the second to be printed privately under the terms of a contract awarded by the Postal Service in 1978. The first stamp to be printed in this manner was the John Paul Jones commemorative issued last September.

A Challenge To Young Blacks

by M. CARL HOLMAN

President, The National Urban Coalition

The other day in Atlanta, one of several gatherings devoted to remembering Martin Luther King's work, was given over to planning a conference to shape a Black agenda for the 80's. Participants included his widow, former comrades in the struggle, Black mayors, members of Congress and state legislators who have come into office in the wake of voting rights legislation born of the marches and martyrdom of the 60's.

One of the ablest political activists in the South, a woman who was herself a student when some of us first knew her, asked -- Are we going to make sure we get our Black college students to this conference? purposes come to Richmond to join in shaping the battle plans for the future. But there was an undercurrent of uncertainty too. "They just don't seem interested in anything serious outside themselves," one veteran of the Sixties said.

Perhaps we do have our own "Me Generation." I remember some other youngsters on our campuses back in the Fifties who did not seem very conscious of some of the realities around them, including what was going on in Montgomery, Alabama. But suddenly it was 1960 and, as if on a signal from Greensboro, they were vitally awake and on the move.

The 80's are dawning as a difficult, if not dismal, decade for millions of American Blacks. Young, relatively advantaged Blacks face a special challenge to play the strongest possible role in shaping the next ten years of the country's history.

DOWN THE BIG ROAD

By WILLIAM O. WALKER

J. Edgar Hoover's Crime

For years the name J. Edgar Hoover was synonymous with the FBI. Hoover was the untouchable. He so thoroughly dominated the criminal and political scene, that the mere mention of his name was enough to send politicians and criminals running.

There was, at least in the past 25 years, a growing suspicion that the real J. Edgar Hoover was more synthetic than real. It seemed that Hoover and his FBI, could solve every kind of crime except crimes against Negroes.

The first intimation for White America that J. Edgar Hoover was not for real, came with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Now comes the revelation that J. Edgar Hoover actually did cover up the bombing case at Sixteenth Street Baptist Church in Birmingham in which four girls died.

It was this same J. Edgar Hoover who tried to intimidate Dr. Martin Luther King to the point of releasing fictitious stories about infidelity to Mrs. King. It is still believed that Hoover and the FBI were deeply involved in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

So, the news stories coming out now about how Hoover thwarted the investigation of FBI agents in the part Ku Klux Klan members played in the bombing of Sixteenth Street Baptist Church, is not surprising.

This revelation is just more corroborating evidence of how top police officials throughout the United States have conspired to suppress evidence in crimes against Negroes.

We hope that what's coming out on Hoover and Birmingham, is but the beginning of revealing the truth about what Hoover and the FBI did to malign and stymie the civil rights movement, and intimidate every Negro leader. Conspiracy, the dictionary tells us, is premeditated collusion to deprive a person or persons of their rights or privileges.

Negroes can certainly charge J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI and law enforcement officials throughout the nation with conspiracy. We have paid a very high price for crimes committed against us by minions of the law.

Here is a great opportunity for the members of the Congressional Black Caucus to have a Congressional investigation into mistreatment and abuse of Negro organizations and their leaders by the FBI and other police organizations. It is time that the lid on these secret activities against Negro rights be removed and the full story of their complicity and duplicity be revealed to the entire world. The investigation should also be extended to the prosecutor's office in the counties where blatant racism dictates the legal rights of Negroes.

The NAACP, the Legal Defense Fund and other organizations have a responsibility to see that a full and complete revelation be made of what's been happening to us in spite of our Constitutional rights.

There Is Money In Prejudice

American democracy is an umbrella for any and every kind of gimmick. Unfortunately, many hucksters find big money in exploiting the prejudices and eccentricities of gullible people.

For years the Ku Klux Klan has peddled its brand of hatred all over the nation, and, in doing so, has bilked the people out of millions of dollars. Peddling its robes and other gimmicks, Klan officials have made themselves rich.

Catering to another segment of the people, the John Birch Society has, likewise, plundered its followers out of millions of dollars. Like the Klan, its basic appeal is to the prejudices of gullible people.

There are so many of these kinds of organizations operating in the United States that there is no accurate inventory of them.

Let anything happen where the prejudices of people can be exploited, and you will find an organization taking advantage of their gullibility.

It is not surprising, then, that there is now a national organization using opposition to school busing as their vehicle to extract money from the exploitable.

This organization is called the National Association for Neighborhood Schools Inc. They have offices in Louisville, KY, Columbus, OH, and Dallas, TX. Their motto is "Stop Forced Busing."

In the mail I got an issue of this organization's monthly bulletin for December and January. It contained six eight-and-a-half-by-eleven sheets of propaganda and exhortations on Congressmen Ron Mottl of Cleveland and John Ashbrook of Newark, OH, as well as other public officials who are using the busing issue for selfish purposes.

Sears, Roebuck and Co. and Mobile Oil Co. were cited for contributing to the NAACP. NAN's members were urged to write these companies to "enlighten" them on NAACP activities.

Their members were urged to write letters to their newspapers and public officials expressing their opposition to school busing.

I am sure that this is not the only group operating in this field for profit.

It is important that our people know the extent these hucksters are going to, exploit the busing issue. CORK, right here in Cleveland, is the same kind of organization. Starting out with outpouring from one big mouth, it has blossomed out as a full-fledged permanent racist body.

Unfortunately, there are no organizations in the Black community to counter the kind of diatribes that spew from these foul sources. Too many of our people are sitting back thinking that all that needs to be done, is for the NAACP lawyers to walk into the Court House. Public opinion is a big factor in the quest for school desegregation. We have not, as yet, organized ourselves to fully publicize the merits and justice of this racial issue.

School busing is being fought just as hard today as slavery was a hundred years ago. There are still people in America who are trying to divide equality on the basis of race.

We must organize to meet these bigots head on. We must not let them poison the minds of millions of people on important issues that vitally affect our rights.

It has been well said that: "The only way racism can succeed in America is for Black people to do nothing."

With our enemies so well organized, it is high time that we start fighting our own battles and stop wishing for someone else to do it.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By JOHN B. COMBS,
Columbus Bureau

DiSalle Tough On Carter

Although he is showing his age and his once thick, cold black hair is now thinner and silvery gray, Michael V. DiSalle has not allowed age to change his political philosophy to any noticeable degree.

With the exception of those profound personal characteristics, Ohio's former Democratic governor appears to be as outspoken on any issue as he was when he sang his swan song at a press conference the morning after his heartbreaking defeat for reelection in November 1961.

DiSalle, now 72 and engaged in the practice of law in Washington, D.C., was in the State Capital recently to open a campaign headquarters for U.S. Senator Edward (Ted) Kennedy.

In boosting the presidential campaign of the Massachusetts Democrat, DiSalle literally laid the Afghanistan crisis, the Iran hostages conflict, inflation, the energy crunch, unemployment and even the Shah's downfall at the steps of the White House and President Carter.

He accused the Carter Administration of talking with forked tongues on the proposed draft movement. From the White House come words that Carter will include women in draft, while Rosalynn insisted in speeches elsewhere that drafting women is not in the President's plan.

DiSalle told reporters that "Carter is making Book" out of the hostages and said the Carter administration "had a lot to do with the Shah being bumped in Iran."

He conceded that Kennedy's loss to Carter in the recent Iowa caucus was a costly, but predicted that it was not fatal. He also noted that Kennedy is having a rough time on the campaign trail right now, but expressed confidence that he will bounce back and weather the political storm.

Kennedy, said the former Toledo Mayor, has the ability and the will to "bring this country back where it belongs. He's going to be a great relief for this country," he added.

As to the Chappaquiddick incident, DiSalle doesn't feel that it should be an issue. Since it happened 12 years ago, Kennedy should be judged on what he has done since then, DiSalle suggested.

He figures the Chappaquiddick controversy should be forgotten, for even if Kennedy had been convicted of manslaughter, he would have served his time and been set free, he added.

Asked if his opposition to the death penalty had changed since he left the governor's office in 1962 and what would he do if he was in office today and the House bill to restore capital punishment was sent to him, he snapped without hesitation, "I'd veto it."

Although he is not surprised by a lot of people favoring the death penalty, "it doesn't belong in a Democratic society," DiSalle said.

When Governor DiSalle voiced strong opposition to the death penalty and wrote a booklet on it, in his publication he said capital punishment was wrong and backed up his contention with a question.

If anybody can show where anyone excepting poor whites and blacks have been put to death in the electric chair, perhaps I will change my feeling. People with wealth and influence who are able to engage high priced attorneys, are never convicted of a death penalty offense, DiSalle said.

Until shown where a person of wealth has paid the supreme penalty, DiSalle said he will continue to speak out against it.

Apparently, such information has not been forthcoming, for he said here the other week, "My feeling toward the death penalty has not changed."

A bill to restore the death penalty, which was approved by the Ohio House almost a year ago, has been bottled up in the Senate Judiciary Committee ever since. Several hearings have been held, but the committee has not scheduled a vote on the controversial proposal.

AFFIRMATIVE ACTION

DECISION DUE

The Supreme Court will rule on the constitutionality of an important federal affirmative action program.

The case, Fullilove v. Kleps, deals with a provision of the 1977 Public Works Employment Act that set aside ten percent of the $4 billion in the Act for minority businesses. That provision made good sense at the time, and similar setaside programs make sense today.

The Act was designed to get the sluggish economy moving again by infusing federal works projects into communities suffering high unemployment. Because previous federal efforts resulted in a freezeout of minority contractors and had little effect on high black jobless figures, it was wise to ensure full minority participation.

As in the Bakke and Wether cases, many people are fighting affirmative action. They're trotting out a lot of the arguments we've heard so often.

But, as the brief filed in the Fullilove case by several civil rights and black business and professional groups makes clear, those old arguments are the same ones we heard back in Reconstruction days.

When the Congress set up the Freedman's Bureau in 1865, and passed other post-war measures aimed specifically at blacks, it came under criticism for racial favoritism.

Opponents charged that Congress didn't pass comparable aid for whites, that it was "unfair," and that it gave blacks a competitive advantage over whites. Those arguments were ridiculous in the context of the 1860s, when blacks were fresh from centuries of slavery, without a decent chance to make their way in a hostile society.

And they are ridiculous today, when the black community is comparably disadvantaged in relation to the white majority.

Blacks lag far behind whites in every category or measurement of well-being. The only advantages blacks have are negative ones -- they are "favored" by being more likely to be poor, to be jobless, to be in bad health, or to be poorly educated.

In fact, affirmative action today is designed to complete the unfinished job of the Reconstruction, to bring parity between the races.

Both Congress and the Courts have consistently made the distinction between "invidious discrimination" and "benign discrimination." The aim of the latter is to make up for past discrimination, to eliminate its continuing effects, and to help its victims catch up with other Americans who never had to compete with blacks in a discriminatory society.

Just as contemporary opponents of affirmative action claim such programs will actually harm blacks, Reconstruction era critics charged that it would hurt blacks by making them dependent or by arousing white resentment.

In other words, blacks were being advised to starve quietly rather than take angering whites.

Such concern for black people is touching, but then as now, it was motivated by the desire to retain white advantage and to suppress black competition.

That's why affirmative action in all fields is so important -- it's a means of making the race a fair one. It accelerates black participation in the mainstream.

And one of the most important areas in which affirmative action is needed is in business. Minority businesses account for only about three percent of all businesses, and for less than one percent of business' total gross receipts.

The result of that situation is the lack of capital formation in the minority community, and higher unemployment than would otherwise be the case.

Expanded minority economic development is a necessity and federal setaside programs are one workable way of supporting that important national goal. That's what the Fullilove case is all about.

their social sensitivity in terms of their ability to relate to all students regardless of race, color or class," he added.

The council developed a series of "Resolutions on Developmental Education" which follow.

Whereas there has been considerable debate on the issue of Developmental Education during the past year; and

Whereas the Legislature in the Budget Bill, H.B. 204, made a significant alteration to the distribution language for the Developmental Education subsidy, limiting funding for basic skills instruction, including academic tutoring and learning laboratories, at State-assisted institutions of higher education; and

Whereas on Tuesday, January 22, 1980, President Enarson testified before the Ohio House Subcommittee on Colleges and Universities, that universities are spending millions of tax dollars to teach basic skills that students should have learned before they got to college; and

Whereas on Thursday, January 24, 1980, an editorial, "Ohio College Standards," in the Columbus Citizen-Journal in a sequel to President Enarson's testimony before the Ohio sub-committee, indicated that "waste of hard-earned tax payers' dollars and an apparent duplication of our public schools efforts ought to be stopped"; and

Whereas the editorial mentioned above quoted and supported President Enarson for having "recommended that the Legislature change our college admissions laws" so that the waste of public money and young people's potential can be stopped; and

Whereas there is "something basically unfair about a state law that requires only one year of high school math and a university that places pupils in so-called remedial courses, unless they demonstrate the level of competency needed to master three years of college-prep math; and

Whereas there are those

Harper Industries Slates $5.2 Million Loan Signing

At 2 p.m. Feb. 26 representatives from the federal and state governments will join representatives from the General Motors Corp. and private investors at the signing of a multimillion dollar loan agreement by officials of Harper Industries Inc.

The small, black owned firm is converting the former A & P food warehouse into an automobile fender manufacturing plant. When the conversion process is complete, the firm's employment rolls is expected to increase tenfold.

The firm, which is headed by Sanford Harper, began producing 8,000 fenders per month last month. That figure is expected to reach approximately 13,000 per month when the plant reaches full production.

Harper worked out a $5.2 million deal with federal, state and private sources which will allow for complete conversion of the old food warehouse into a 300-employee car fender manufacturing plant over a 10-year period.

Some of the new employees expected to be hired through federally supported training programs but that is not expected to change the 85 percent black employment rate presently existing within the firm, which was started by Harper and six of his friends around two years ago.

According to Harper, the loan package will include $2.6 million from the federal Economic Development Agency to buy stamping and painting equipment. This portion carries a 10.5 percent interest rate with a 10-year repayment period.

That same federal agency will also provide $735,000 of more than $1 million that will be used as operating or working capital to help buy raw materials. The interest rate for the three-quarters of a million dollars is 10.25 percent for 10 years.

Hammond Seeks More City Contracts For Women, Minorities

The Columbus City Council is expected to vote

Monday night on legislation aimed at involving more minorities and women in contracts awarded by the city.

Councilman Jerry Hammond will chair a hearing on contract compliance legislation at 6 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 21, in the City Council chambers, second floor of City Hall, 90 W. Broad St.

The legislation provides that a goal be established for minorities and women to receive at least 10 percent of all dollars spent by the city in contracts.

It also establishes a goal for all contractors doing business with the city to have at least 10.6 percent minority and 6.9 percent women on its workforce. For all contracts other than construction, the goal would be 15 percent minorities and 20 percent women.

The legislation, sponsored by Hammond, would also call for at least 20 percent of the total dollars expended for all contracts of $2,500 or less to be awarded to minorities and women.

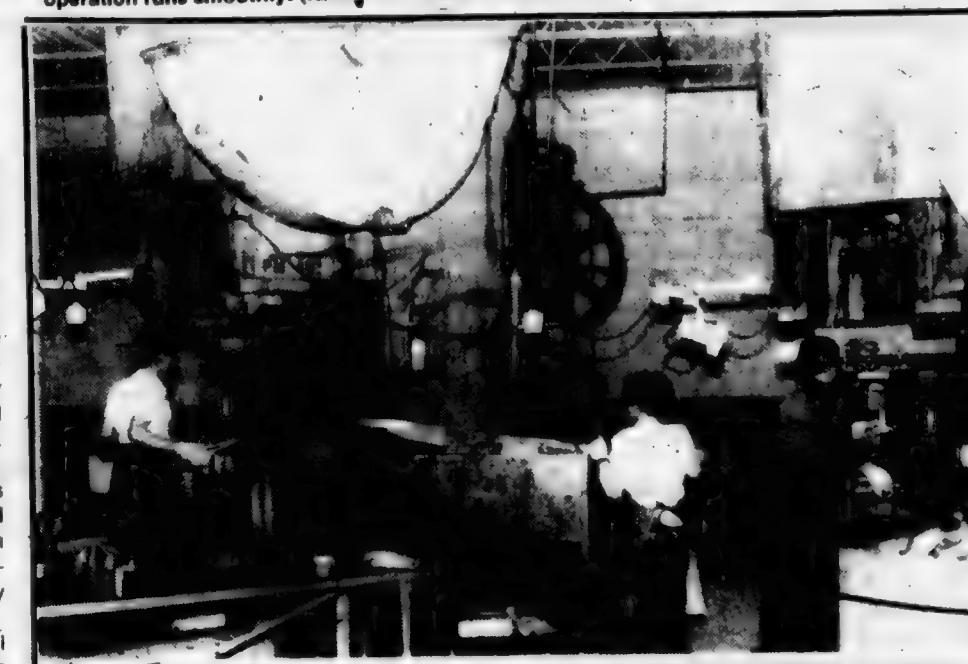

Following a hearing on the legislation last Thursday, Hammond said that he expects it to pass. He said minor revisions could be made in the original legislation, but that the important goals would not be changed when the legislation comes before the entire council on Monday night.

Enforcement of the compliance legislation would be directed by the Contract Compliance Administrator, a position occupied by William Holloway until his resignation recently. Holloway resigned to join his wife in Minneapolis, Minn.

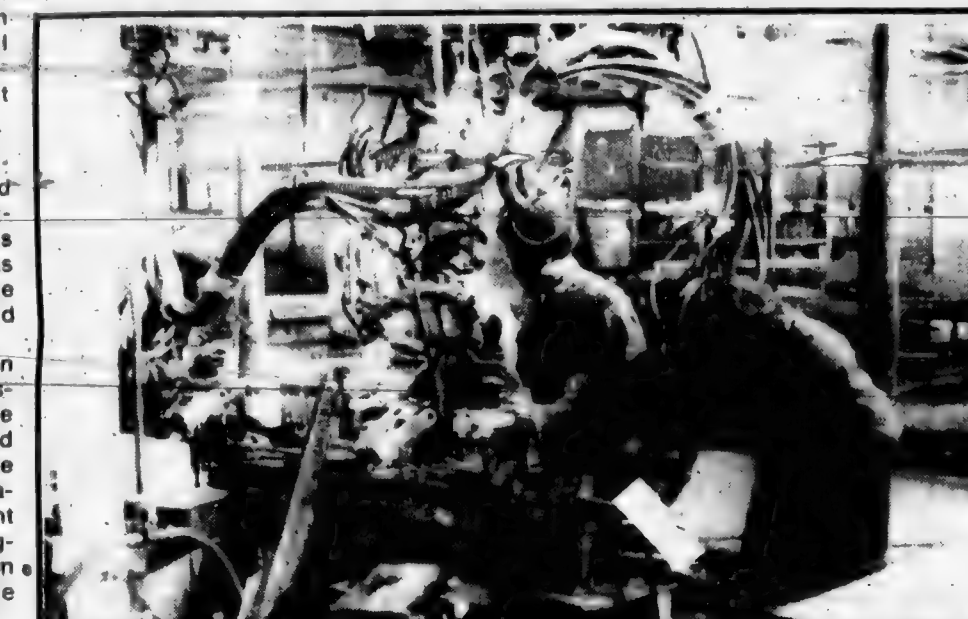

The administrator would have the power to investigate complaints, make inspections and observe employment conditions

Plaza Building To Be Named George Caesar Berry Center

The Neighborhood Development Corp. (NDC) has voted to rename the Plaza's Community and Party House. At NDC's February board meeting, the board voted to name the house The George Caesar Berry Community Center.

The Neighborhood Development Corporation (NDC), owner, developer, and manager of Mt. Vernon Plaza, voted at its February board meeting to rename the Plaza's meeting and party house, "The George Caesar Berry Community by most area citizens from all walks of life.

The inscription on a plaque he received from NBL reads, "He lifted the veil of ignorance from his people, and pointed the way to progress through education and industry." The inscription is from the Booker T. Washington Monument at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama.

The popular Chesapeake Snack Bar was moved from its Mt. Vernon Avenue location to make way for Mt. Vernon Plaza under Berry's supervision in 1975. Mt. Vernon Plaza was one of his dreams and visions, along with other members of MVADIA.

The request for the renaming of the Plaza Community House was made by the Edna L. Bryce Tribute Committee and the MVADIA. It is Mrs. Bryce's wish that surplus funds from her recent tribute be used to honor her friend and co-community worker.

"Our Board had no difficulty approving the dedication idea," said William Potter, executive vice president of NDC.

"George Caesar Berry touched all our lives in one way or another," Potter told the CALL & POST.

The Call & Post learned that a dedication ceremony is being planned for a time in May.

E. Gates St., attributed their 16 year old daughter Dantonja's decision to turn herself in to Juvenile Court authorities, to the widespread attention the CALL & POST story on the disappearance received throughout the community last week.

Shortly after the paper hit the news stands with front page coverage and picture, "people started to call in to say that they had seen her," Mrs. Annette Barber recalled.

"She gave herself up that same day (Thursday)," the relieved mother said.

According to her mother, the troubled youngster still remains mum on the whereabouts of her secret hideaway and how she eluded tracking efforts of family, friends and missing persons bureau officials.

Construction Contract Awarded To Smoot Co.

The Sherman R. Smoot Co. has been awarded a $5.9 million contract for the construction of the GCEP Administration Building for the U.S. Department of Energy's Portsmouth Gas Centrifuge Enrichment Plant.

Work in the contract consists of construction of a two-story structural steel, brick and aluminum facing office building of approximately 60,000 square feet. The building will include security alarm systems, vaults, and cafeteria service facilities.

Work is expected to begin on the contract in early April and takes approximately 425 calendar days to complete.

He was a member of Frontiers International, Columbus Urban League, NAACP, and was a founding member of the Olen-tangy Lodge of Elks. He was a member of all branches of the Masonic family -- both Scottish and York Rite, PHA.

In 1973, Berry received the Booker T. Washington Symbol of Service award -- the National Business League's highest honor. Additionally, he was the honoree of a "community tribute" held by the Community in 1975. Berry was known as a world traveler, having toured many new African states to witness and participate in independence celebrations.

Boyers' 45th Wedding Anniversary Rings Merriment Despite Weather

On Feb. 15, which is a day later than their actual wedding anniversary date, Evelyn and Harry Boyer celebrated 45 sweet years of marital bliss.

The weatherman wasn't at all kind to them on that memorable occasion, but their friends were not deterred and in spite of the horrid weather, their gala open house went off beautifully and without a hitch.

Their hostesses, Della Gaston, Marie Brooks and Nellie Freeman, their bartender, Ernie Carr, a cousin and the catering firm they engaged, made darn sure of that.

It was a cocktail buffet and the menu was presented in a very attractive and appealing manner. There was an endless supply of hot and cold hors d'oeuvres. The waitresses came about so frequently that one was never far away from a tempting tidbit, even though the party took place on two floors.

One of the things that made it very nice is that the Boyers' guest list included many long time friends like Dolke Griffin and Lucille Shanklin, who attended the first grade with Evelyn. It was a special occasion for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brandon, Evelyn's sister and brother-in-law, because in 1935 they were at 200 Wheatland Ave. when the Boyers tied the knot at the home of their parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Mary) Anderson. Then, too many of their former neighbors were there and many pleasant memories reflect the state of the economy because there were many luxury items some couple and the pleasure of having a continuous flow of family and friends in and out of their home, and their dog Peppi making quick, unauthorized dashes into the party scene to check on things, afforded them an extra glow.

After the gala, the Boyers were asked independently what they thought made their marriage so long lasting and pleasurable. Evelyn said, "Keep on loving, togetherness, and liking the same kind of things."

Adoptive Children Benefit From Recruitment Increase

Through increased recruitment the Franklin County Children Services were able to place 41 more "hard to place" children in adoptive homes in 1979 than in 1978, according to Doris Calloway, adoption recruiter.

Ms. Calloway said 112 children were placed in adoptive homes last year. The number in 1978 was 71. She credited the increase to combined efforts of the agency's staff and an informed community. She said 14 of the 1979 adoptive placements were children over 10 years of age.

Several large sibling groups and handicapped children also found adoptive homes. Ms. Calloway said But she said the need for adoptive homes is still great.

Teenage boys, black children of all ages and handicapped children comprise most of the children who are waiting, she said. The agency is planning specialized recruitment activities geared toward particular communities to place these children.

Presently, over 80 percent of the waiting children are black. Ms. Calloway said As a result, she said, recruitment efforts have focused on the need to find black families.

Prospective adoptive families should be at least 21 years of age if married, and married for two years. Single applicants must be a minimum of 25. Prospective families should be Franklin County residents and in good health.

For additional information on adoption, contact Ms. Calloway at 275-2511.

Agency Moves To Increase Food Stamp Participation

At least 33 percent of all eligible food stamp recipients in Franklin County do not receive them, according to Fred Lappert, supervisor of the program.

The Community Food and Nutrition Program, funded by a $106,000 grant from the U.S. Community Services Administration, is trying to identify and register them for the stamps.

The five outreach workers are working out of the CMACAO Near Northside Center, 1100 N. High St.; the CMACAO Westside Center, 415 W. Rich St.; the CMACAO Martin Luther King Center, 1160 Oak St.; the CMACAO Southern Center, 980 Parsons Ave.; and the CMACAO Eastside Center, 881 Mt. Vernon Ave.

Wallace Cash, director of the seven CMACAO neighborhood centers, said future plans call for the establishment of two food co-ops, which will allow members to purchase food at reduced prices. A newsletter providing nutritional information to the public is also planned as part of the program, he added.

"The poor don't get balanced diets because they don't get enough food stamps," Cash said. "Food stamps don't keep up with inflation. Prices in food go up all the time, which makes it hard for persons living on fixed incomes."

Delegate agencies will also play an important part in the program, Cash said. The Welfare Rights Organization has a nutritional outreach worker and will be training welfare hearing advocates. The Hunger Task Force will provide additional outreach and work to increase participation in the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program, Cash said.

Another delegate agency, Operation Feed, will supply area food pantries with food so they can continue to provide crisis relief for those with no food at home, he said.

Plan Senior Citizen Unit

The public is being invited to a groundbreaking ceremony and open house at the Crippled Children's Center of Central Ohio at 1 p.m. Saturday, March 1.

The groundbreaking will be for a new senior citizen multi-purpose addition to the Center, located at 565 Children's Drive West, at the northeast corner of Parsons and Livingston avenues.

The addition is designed to primarily serve older, handicapped individuals in the Franklin County area and has a potential to serve all ages with program scheduling.

It is planned that the addition will provide such services as: the NICE program (Nutrition Involving Columbus Elderly), educational programs, speech and hearing therapy, hydrotherapy, art therapy, counseling, social/recreational activities, etc.

Some supporting services which may be included are: income tax assistance, health screening, crime prevention, legal services and other services designed to keep handicapped individuals independent in their own homes.

Following the groundbreaking ceremony, an open house has been scheduled at the Center with various activities planned for all sections of the rehabilitation center. Refreshments will be served.

The agency will sponsor an open house at the facility, 303 E. Sixth Ave., from 2-5 p.m. Feb. 24.

Community Health, Nursing Service Slates Open House

Celebrating 82 years of continuous community health service, the Community Health and Nursing Service announces a 2-5 p.m. open house at its new home, 303 E. Sixth Ave., Sunday, Feb. 24. Theme for the celebration is "1890's-1980's: A New Home-Improved Services."

In January, 1980, this United Way agency, known from 1898 until a 1972 name change as the Instructive District Nursing Association, began operation of its Home Visiting Program independently of the City of Columbus Health Department for the first time since 1922.

of chns board

In that year, the two agencies merged the nursing and rehabilitation services of their home visiting programs. Separating recently in reaction to requirements of Medicare, CHNS at the same time moved its offices from the City Health Building to the spaciousness of the old Sixth Avenue School.

Board and staff members, delighted with more room and the opportunity to coordinate services under one roof, want to demonstrate how well a converted school building works, and to explain their services.

Currently a staff of 220 persons, headed by Executive Director Joyce Kanetzke and Assistant Director Linda Ferrell provide the following services: the Home Visiting Program, including physical, occupational and speech rehabilitation, nursing, and Home Health Aides, Homemakers Nutrition Involving Columbus Elderly (NICE), Senior Citizens Nursing Clinics, Nutritional Consultation, and Friendly Visitors.

At 3 p.m., Dr. Mary Ann Williams of the CHNS Board will introduce a short program. Dr. Williams is an associate professor of communications in the O.S.U. Black Studies Program, executive producer and moderator of the WOSU-AM Black Studies Broadcast Journal, and former hostess of WOSU-TV's Afroamation program.

She will welcome Samuel L. Black of 2877 E. Broad St., honored guest for the day. Black is the son of Carrie N. Black, founder and first signer of the 1898 charter establishing the Instructive District Nursing Association. His father was Samuel L. Black, mayor of Columbus at the time of the Spanish-American War, and at the time when "18 energetic women" led by Mrs. Black, worked in their parlor to organize the IDNA.

Paralleling the theme, "1890's-1980's: A New Home-Improved Services," Joan L. Andrews of Akron will speak to the future of community health service in the '80's. Mrs. Andrews is executive director of the Visiting Nurse Service of Summit County Inc.

YWCA To Select New Executive Director

The YWCA Board of Directors has established an Executive Search Committee to seek applications and select a new Executive Director of the Columbus YWCA. The committee will be led by YWCA Board member Carol Lister.

An applicant should have extensive administrative skills as well as ability to communicate effectively with staff, board and the public. A master's degree or a minimum of five years of experience in human service work, is required.

Ms. Lister said. Interested persons should send a resume to Search Committee, YWCA, 65 S. Fourth St., Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Previous Executive Director Judith Hastings resigned, effective Feb. 1. Until a new Executive Director is hired, Lillian Jackson will serve as Interim Executive Director. Ms. Jackson is a former national staff person for the YWCA, with years of consulting experience at YWCAs across the country. Ms. Lister said.

'Proud Black Images' Project Gets Underway

The Columbus Chapter of Jack and Jill of America Inc. is working cooperatively with the Ohio State University Black Studies Community Extension Center on a Black history project.

Titled "Proud Black Images," this research project seeks to heighten Jack and Jill teenagers and their parent's awareness of personalities, events, organizations and institutions that have been significant in the development of Black history and culture in Ohio. The Local Jack and Jill group saw merit in a proposal submitted by Dr. Charles Nesbitt, director of the Community Extension Center. The National Foundation funded the project, with further support being added by the Columbus Chapter.

Black, White Police At Odds

year old black youth shot and killed by a white police officer.

It was learned by the CALL & POST that the Black Political Assembly plans to circulate petitions to impeach county coroner Dr. William Adrion.

Meanwhile, statements and counter-statements were made by the Police Officers for Equal Rights (POER) and the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP). At a press conference Tuesday, FOP President Ross Rader said statements by the POER are a "thinly veiled attempt to create a polarization within the Columbus Police Department, and even worse, to create a polarization within the community."

Rader's prepared statement was in response to the POER's criticism of the investigation by Internal Affairs of the police division in which the death of Keith A. Burke was ruled justifiable.

Burke was killed Dec. 24 as he allegedly tried to run over Officer Allen Zecickey and his partner with a stolen taxicab in a parking lot on N. High St. near Ohio State University. Police Chief Earl Burden and coroner Dr. William Adrion ruled the shooting justifiable last Wednesday.

Police Stubblefield, president of POER, said last Friday that neither Burden's nor Adrion's investigations were "meaningful." He said the investigations were a "cover-up" of the facts.

"It's a sad commentary on how far our department will go to justify the shooting of a black youth by a white police officer when the chief of police states that an officer within three steps of an intoxicated suspect whom much smaller than the officer can shoot the suspect in the back instead of apprehending him," Stubblefield said in a prepared statement. Adrion said the autopsy showed that Burke was intoxicated.

Stubblefield has since requested police protection, saying that his life has been threatened by some white officers.

The New Careers Program, instituted by CMA-CAO in 1968, enabled the unemployed and the underemployed to obtain training in professional fields such as medical careers, social work and education. In a two year program, participants received training at Ohio State University.

Williams and a group of former New Careers students are attempting to pull together all New Careers participants to form a New Careers Alumni Association.

"We're hoping an alumni association will generate community support to help reinstitute the New Careers Program," Williams said.

Like many other New Careers participants, Williams used the two-year program as a stepping stone to receive his bachelor and master degrees.

"When I entered New Careers, I saw the potential," Williams said. "I wasn't very motivated before New Careers."

Williams was a welder before he entered New Careers. Knowing it would be difficult to work and go to school, he turned to CMA-CAO for help.

"I studied social work in New Careers," he said. "After I got a job at the Human Resource Center, I knew social work was where my heart was."

Not only did CMA-CAO provide a learning resource through New Careers but it also provided the means for a group of people who were virtually in the same situation to get a second chance, Williams said.

Since the New Careers Program has ended, CMA-CAO has researched the homicide, which some black organizations disagreed with.

September and Associates manufactures the synthesized media environment (SME) system which simulates real life situations in such ways that police officers confronted with shoot or no shoot decisions, under high stress, can decide whether or not to kill.

The SME is best compared to the flight simulator universally used to train commercial and military pilots of fixed wing aircraft and space vehicles. A pilot error in the flight simulator results in a "crash" without damage to property or loss of life.

The system reportedly has been so effective in training police to make mistakes in the simulator, rather than on the street, that the city of Seattle awarded the firm a training contract for $182,000.

Black Athletes Smeared

and, at times, even as reactionary. The majority of black professional athletes are either from a black inner city or small town Southern environment. In either case the white sports scribes have some trouble looking at stereotypes in viewing these men. This is particularly hard when the athlete acts "too" black. In the writer's mind, it seems, these players too closely resemble the kids who carry big boxes and smoke herb in public.

In short, these black men don't fit their view of what a good black should be and they don't like it. A player like a Bernard King or Marvin Barnes is a target from day one. If he messes up, the writers jump on them with both feet and a typewriter.

One thing that Art Rust and I have also noticed is that many a white sportswriter is intimidated by the "sexuality" of black players.

In the lockerroom situation, the players are naked and exposed, observations are made. I have heard comments about black players among white writers. They are often snide and nasty, reflections what can only be a deep seated inferiority complex.

Black athletes also get women. If you have money and are well known, it's not hard to have an active social life in New York. Some of the women are black. A lot are white. If you think this doesn't irritate many of our more uptight scribes, think again.

One otherwise nice liberal white writer once made a comment to me about how we black guys are getting women. I guess it was a joke of some kind, but it's how they said it. I detected a jealousy and envy that truly shocked me.

But then, it really shouldn't have. That kind of inferiority, mixed with envy, runs through a lot of sports writing in the New York area. Just ask Reggie Jackson.

According to police, when Patterson attempted to stop the suspects, he was shot in the back with a .22 caliber pistol.

Charles Walton was arrested earlier when he visited relatives. Shawkey said when police stopped the car driven by the suspect wanted for traffic violations, they discovered James Walton.

all the volunteers present at the kickoff to learn this basic life-saving technique.

Hawkins suffered two major heart attacks and just recently was released from the hospital after suffering from congestive heart failure. He faces possible open-heart surgery after the Heart Fund drive.

In the absence of Dr. John L. Robinson, former member of the Franklin County Heart Branch board, remarks were made by Betty Wilson, executive vice-president of the Central Ohio Heart Chapter, and Mary Ginty, residential drive coordinator of the Franklin County Heart Branch.

A check for $200 from the Baptist Wives and Widows Alliance of Columbus and Vicinity was received by Hawkins in November from Mrs. Noel Carter, president of the Alliance. Hawkins presented the check to Mary Ginty at the kickoff.

A 23-minute film entitled "Heart Research: Results You Can Live With," was shown to the group. The film is available to organizations for viewing and features research conducted locally that has been funded by contributions to the Heart Branch. Pictures were taken by Roosevelt Carter, who has been a Heart volunteer for 18 years.

Lauch Henry helped find the missing ingredient to educate minority engineers. Now.

Lauchland Henry is a teacher. And a scientist. And an engineer. He's generally concerned about other people. And he has expressed some of that concern in his participation with the National Fund for Minority Engineering Students.

The fund is a non-profit organization attempting to increase the number of Blacks, Puerto Ricans, Chicanos, Mexican Americans and American Indians enrolled in engineering schools.

These underrepresented minorities constitute a rich untapped resource to help fill the growing need for engineers. A need that is expected to continue through the mid 1980's.

IBM's social leave program enabled Dr. Henry to take a year's leave to visit the fund. And IBM continued to pay him his full salary.

The National Fund for Minority Engineering Students is a very worthwhile program. We think so. Lauchland Henry thinks so. But most important of all, lots of minority engineering students enrolled at colleges and universities all over the country think so.

Real Estate

By SAM LIGON, REALTOR/REALTIST

BUYING VS RENTING

QUESTION: Can you give me the pros and cons for renting vs. buying?

ANSWER: First, renting can be the answer for families who know they'll only be in the area for a short time or who prefer not to contend with maintenance. It's also the only solution for those with insufficient funds for the down payment on a home.

The main disadvantage of renting is a financial one. As living costs rise - so do rents. A lease may protect you temporarily, but when it expires, the landlord is free to increase the rent - even under rent control when justified. Rent payment cannot be deducted from income taxes as the homeowner can deduct real estate taxes and interest on the mortgage.

If you have questions in any area of real estate, feel free to phone or stop in at SAM LIGON REALTY, 27 HOFFMAN AVE., COLUMBUS, OHIO 43205, (614) 252-1313. We're here to help! Mr. Ligon is a graduate of Franklin University with a Real Estate major, and presently teaches Real Estate at Columbus Technical Institute.

lishing an advisory board to review the police policies on the use of deadly force. The board would include representatives from the Columbus Branch NAACP, the Urban League, CMAA, U.S. Department of Justice, Hammond, Rosemond, Mentel, Fraternal Order of Police and Police Officers for Equal Rights.

Ron Poole, executive assistant to Mayor Tom Moody, said the question of excessive and deadly force is difficult to resolve because officers face situations when they must make judgment calls. He said the mayor has been following charges by the black community that excessive use of force by police is directed at the black community and hopes to have the issue resolved.

$11 MILLION LAWSUIT

In the lawsuit to be filed, Moody is listed as one of the defendants, as an individual and as Mayor of Columbus. Other defendants to be included as individuals and as city officials include: Officer Zecickey, Chief Earl Burden, Safety Director Bernard Chupka, and county coroner Adrien. Defendants will also be the City of Columbus, City Attorney Gregory Lashutka and two other police officers. Plaintiffs are Burke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Burke.

It was learned this week that the Columbus Chapter, Ohio Black Political Assembly plans to circulate petitions to have Adrien impeached. A spokesman for the group said several other organizations would be involved in the effort.

BLACKS UNCONVINCED

And although Ms. Glenn said the Justice Department would continue to meet with city officials and black organizations, Ross said the Black United Front and other black organizations would not meet with city officials.

At a press conference Saturday, Ross said blacks have met with city officials before and got no results. He said the Front would continue its boycott against four business institutions, adding that the boycott would be escalated in the spring.

The boycott is against Lazarus and Sears department stores, The Columbus Dispatch and Grant Hospital.

CITY COUNCILMEN Dr. John H. Rosemond and Jerry Hammond listen attentively as one reporter asks them why they want the U.S. Justice Department to investigate the Christmas Eve shooting of Keith Andre Burke by a Columbus policeman.

Paid Learning Program Available To Students

Work/study opportunities in city and regional planning are available through a program sponsored by Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission.

Through the program, students earn a master's degree in city planning from Ohio State University while gaining valuable professional experience. Students are employed by local planning agencies for 15 hours each week during the quarter, and 40 hours per week when school is not in session.

In all, a student accumulates approximately 1000 hours of "on-the-job" experience during the year.

Tuition and a book allowance are also provided to program participants.

Students are selected for the program based on their financial need and personal and/or professional experience with a minority population. Applicants chosen for this year's program will begin classes fall quarter, 1980.

College graduates interested in applying for this work/study program, or in obtaining further information, should contact Carl Laurent, MORPC staff member, at 228-2663. The deadline for applications is May 31, 1980.

Buckeyes To End Homestand Against Wildcats, Hawkeyes

By HIRAM L. TANNER
Ohio State's basketball homestand comes to a close this week against Northwestern and Iowa. The Buckeyes are 9-5 in league play and will end their conference schedule next week against Purdue and Indiana. Since they are tied with Purdue and Indiana for first place, the Buckeyes could win the conference title by winning all four games.

Northwestern proved to be a giant killer last week by knocking off Purdue 57-54. They almost turned the same trick on the Hawkeyes, but lost this close contest, 60-58. Leading scorers for NU are sophomore Jim Stack with a 13.0 average and Mike Campbell with 12.5.

When the outside shooting of Bobby Harris wasn't connecting, it didn't bother South High School Saturday night as the high scoring guard handed off passes to teammates inside in helping the Bulldogs stop Brookhaven 72-66 in the City League title game at Otterbein's Rike Center.

Harris didn't connect for a field goal in the second half, but the inside work of Robert Henton, Marvin Stevens and D.D. Lee spoiled any hope of a Brookhaven victory. Stevens had a game-high 23 points, while Henton and Lee collected 13 each.

Brookhaven was still within reach after three periods, trailing the quicker South 50-45. And with five minutes left in the game, Brookhaven had come within four, 57-51, before South used the next two minutes to run the score to 63-55 through the passing of Harris and the scoring of Stevens inside.

Sam Cherry, Brookhaven's threat inside, was kept from the ball throughout the game as South used and another behind him, Cherry, averaging 17.8 points coming into the game, finished with 10 points, four in the last minute when only the final score was in doubt.

Cherry's teammate, Paul O'Neill, scored 16 and Tracy Grosh 17 for Brookhaven, while Kenny Guice had 10 and playmaker Quinn Carter, who played in foul trouble, had 4.

South appeared to be in control of the game early, but failure of guard Greg Bell to penetrate inside kept Brookhaven close. Bell, who didn't have one of his better games, finished with 10 points and Harris, who averages better than 26, managed 13.

At the half, the score was 36-30 in favor of South, as the Bulldogs hit the last two goals to pull away. Brook-haven had to rely on O'Neill exclusively inside, as Cherry was denied the ball.

South led 18-15 at the end of the first period as Harris had hit for 10 points. With good offensive rebounding in the period, South repeatedly got a second shot at the basket. At the same time, the Bulldogs were plagued by turnovers.

Big Ten Player of the Week after scoring 18 and 24 points against Iowa and Minnesota last week.

Woodson, out of the lineup for eight weeks due to a back injury, has placed Indiana back into solid contention for the Big Ten title. The Hoosiers have a 9-5 record, the same for Ohio State and Purdue.

Al Matthews of Columbus Indoor South won the men's doubles and mixed doubles in the Midwest Inter City Grand Prix Tennis Championships held in Cincinnati.

Roy White, an outfielder for the New York Yankees for 14 years, will play with the Tokyo Yomiuri Giants this season. White was used mostly as a utility outfielder last year with the Yankees.

Former World Boxing Association lightweight champion Mike Rossman will seek revenge against Ramon Ranquello in a 10-round bout which CBS Sports will broadcast live at 3:15 p.m. Sunday. The local affiliate of CBS is WBNS-10TV.

The Columbus Clippers have available a film of the 1979 World Series games between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Baltimore Orioles. The film is available for groups at no charge, and is available by appointment only.

Inquiries concerning the scheduling of the film should be directed to Sue Hebling at the Clippers office, 1155 W. Mount St., Columbus, 43223, or call 462-5250.

Porter Skywalkers won the AAU Central District championship Saturday with a 99-83 victory over Crestview Foods. Cornelius Cash scored 30 points and Lance Timmons and Frankie Sanders added 16 apiece for the winners.

Barry Longhino and Geron Tate each had 20 and 17 points respectively for the losers.

Howard Davis, undefeated as a professional after winning an Olympic boxing gold medal, takes on the World Boxing Council's No. 1 rated contender Vilomar Fernandez, in a 12-round WBC lightweight elimination bout to be broadcast live by CBS at 4 p.m. Saturday. The local CBS affiliate is WBNS-TV10.

Davis, 12-0 as a pro with five knockouts, is ranked No. 2 by the WBC. The winner of the bout is expected to get a title shot against WBC lightweight champion Jim Watt.

South's Inside Scoring Means City League Title

The Hawkeyes have won four of their last five and six of their last eight games. At the present time, they are only one game behind the triple league leaders.

Victories over Wisconsin and Ohio State this week would keep the Hawkeyes in contention for the Big Ten title. If so, they must rely heavily on their three leading scorers, guard Kenny Arnold (12.3), forward Kevin Boyle (12.1) and center Steve Krafisin (12.0).

The forthcoming games with the Wildcats and the Hawkeyes this week will bring to a close the college careers of four seniors. Leading this list is Kelvin Ransey, the sensational guard from Toledo Macomber.

The Big Ten guard has started 105 of 108 games and has scored a total of 1,818 points, the second highest in Buckeye history.

Only Jerry Lucas with 1,990 points has scored more than Ransey. He also holds the school record for most assists in one game with 13 and career assists with 482.

Although Larry Bolden holds the single season mark of 154, Ransey only needs 11 more to add to his total of 143 to equal Bolden's output.

One of the first players recruited by Eldon Miller when he assumed the coaching position at Ohio State was Jim Elinghausen of Plymouth, Mich. The 6-8 forward was coach Miller's starting center as a freshman. Since that time, he has been used as a reserve center and forward. He has played in 106 of 108 games for the Buckeyes.

Seniors Tony Hall and Mark Heta have played important roles over the years for the Bucks. Hall came to Ohio State as a walk-on and has been used mostly in a reserve role. Heta, a 6-8 center, has seen action as a back-up center.

Another sell-out crowd of 13,591 was on hand at St. John arena last week to see the Buckeyes defeat Illinois 71-57. The Buckeyes had four starters scoring in the double figures with center Herb Williams leading the way with 18 points. Ransey added 17 more while Carter Scott and Clark Kellogg added 12 and 11 respectively.

Fishing Licenses Slated For Sale

It is still cold outside but one of the surest signs of spring made its appearance this week. Ohio's 1980 fishing licenses are now on sale throughout the state.

The Division of Wildlife of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR) notes the new license is required as of March 1 to take fish, frogs, turtles and mussels from all Ohio waters. A fishing license for an Ohio resident costs $7.75 and can be purchased at many retail locations, including hardware, sporting goods and fishing tackle stores.

The fishing in Ohio was good last year and it should be even better this year, said Carl L. Mosley Jr., chief of the Division of Wildlife. "With the Fish-O-hio program we are constantly trying to improve the fishing from the Ohio River all the way to Lake Erie."

N.Y. Amsterdam News

It's easy, but not reliable, to chart black advances in athletics by our achievements on the field. The Reggie Jacksons, Walter Paytons, Julius Ervings, etc. have proven our ability to compete at the highest levels over and over again.

The problem is on the sidelines, outside the field of combat, where the power is held.

What American professional sports needs now are:

- A. Blacks coaching.
- B. Blacks in executive positions.
- C. Blacks covering sports in the mass white media.

Let's use New York's sporting teams as an example of what's wrong. We have two baseball teams, two football teams, two basketball teams, all of whom employ a considerable number of black players -- the Knicks, of course, are all black.

Right now, none has a black head coach. The Knicks had Willis Reed running the show for a time. Currently Butch Beard is an assistant to Red Holtzman.

The Nets have no one. The Jets have an assistant coach. The Giants have no one. The Yankees have the venerable Elston Howard. The Mets have no one.

Basketball has been better in this respect than football or baseball, but all still have a long way to go. Before you have as many blacks upstairs as on the field.

The insensitivity of the (white) media to black players has been remarked upon on occasions too numerous to mention. We criticize them for the hypocrisy, had judgment, and racism that consistently colors their reporting on black athletes and black people in general.

Black writers are needed in the mass media, if even a semblance of understanding of blacks is to be found. The New York Post has no regular contributor, no black sportswriters. The New York Daily News has one black sportswriter, Dave Sims. The New York Times one, Al Harvin. The electronic media of New York is even a whiter shade of pale.

Watching the interaction between black athletes and white reporters makes the need for more black reporters quite clear. The bulk of white writers are middle to lower class types with viewpoints set firmly in suburbia. Their perceptions of black are as narrow

OLD TIMERS AWARD NIGHT -- These members of the Old Timers Athletic Association list plans for their second annual Dinner Dance and Disco Award Night from 6 to 1 a.m. Saturday, March 22. The event will be at Galloway Fiesta Party House, 1991 S. Champion Ave. The planning committee includes, from left, Nate Noble, James Willis, Walter Pryor, Herman Reeves and Roy G. Morgan. For ticket information, call 258-0389.

In the executive hierarchy of these sporting institutions it's hard to find a black face of consequence. Someone might be in the ticket office, there are probably some scouts. But otherwise the leadership is as white as ivory soap.

Outside of New York there are some examples of black leadership in key positions. Lenny Wilkins both coaches and built his championship Seattle ball club. Hank Aaron is vice president of player development for the Atlanta Braves. The Braves also had the late Bill Lucas in a vice presidential position.

Attila serves as both coach and general manager of basketball's Golden State Warriors. The National Basketball Association has a black vice president in Sy Gourdine. Tank Younger works for the National Football League, and Monte Irvin serves the baseball commission. These, however, are just drops in the bucket. Some to be honest are just "spooks by the door" used to give the organization a little color, but with no real influence.

MARINE PVT. David M. Pendergrass, son of David L. and Virginia S. Pendergrass of 3363 Penfield Rd., has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego. He graduated from Independence High School in 1979 and joined the Marine Corps in October.

Mental Health Association Offers Volunteer Project

Volunteer training recently began for Project PAVE, a new program of the Mental Health Association which is being implemented in Franklin County under a grant from the Battelle Foundation.

The project (Patient Advocacy through Volunteer Efforts) will match trained volunteers with mentally disabled persons being released from state institutions to assist in the transition to community living.

"Working through red tape, finding housing, helping people learn to manage finances and have rewarding life experiences" are some of the goals of PAVE, according to Steve VanHeyde, president of the MHA of Franklin County, which will work with the MHA in implementing the project here in Franklin County.

In 1955, there were over half a million people confined in state mental hospitals in the United States. Today there are less than 170,000. Where did all these people go? "Back to the community," says Dr. Dudley Briggs, president of the MHA of Ohio, "but not necessarily back to the home they left."

While many people leaving institutions have been able to return to normal or near normal lives, others have difficulty coping with everyday living. It is these persons that Project PAVE is designed to help.

The need for volunteers is great. Seventy-three percent of persons hospitalized during 1971-77 were non-white, 60 percent of those were males. For many of these, lack of family and friends caused rehospitalization. These "revolving door" patients can benefit from a program like PAVE and can once again lead productive lives in our community.

Volunteers will receive 30 hours of training in supportive skills and advocacy during a five week period. Three Continuing Education Units will be awarded for the course which includes special topics such as mental health/mental illness, dealing with anger, mini-assertiveness training, communication skills, the social-welfare system and advocacy know-how.

Training emphasizes the involvement of the participants through role playing, field trips and other activities. Volunteers who complete the training will be eligible to attend future in-service workshops. Insurance and some expense reimbursement will be available for PAVE volunteers.

The Mental Health Association is a nationwide volunteer organization dedicated to the promotion of mental health, the prevention of mental illness and the improved care and treatment of the mentally ill. Volunteers work toward these goals through programs like Project PAVE. For further information, contact the Mental Health Association at 221-5383.

PLAZA BREAKFAST PLANNERS-Members of the Mt. Vernon Plaza Merchants Association recently met to plan an informational breakfast for the press, ministry and community leaders. The breakfast will be at 8:30 a.m. Monday, Feb. 25, at the Plaza Community House. Members meeting were, from left, Emma Rudolph, Neighborhood Development Corp.

Commercial manager; Bill Hilton, owner of Plaza Hot Dog Shop; Waldo Tyler, owner of Waldo Tyler's Pharmacy Services; Melvin Steward, owner of Plaza Carryout and the Association President; Ben Moore, owner of Economy Data Service; a representative of Debbie Dear Ice Cream Shop; and Hubert Tuney, owner of Golden Bird Fried Chicken.

OSU Student Designs Math Program For Black Children

A mathematics program designed to coincide with the life experiences with black children in the United States has been developed by a masters degree candidate in the Ohio State University's Black Studies Department.

utilizes what he has termed the "holistic" approach in demonstrating mathematics to fifth and sixth grade children.

Crewsaw said the holistic approach brings together all of the students' environmental experiences, which correlates closely with the traditional African world-view.

The perspective of the program is characterized by a "feeling, intuitive, internal, communal" approach to knowledge, Crewsaw said.

The children participating in this program were drawn from the Livingston Avenue Elementary School. Principal James Guess has shown enthusiasm for this program and has encouraged his teachers to cooperate in the recruitment and retention of children, Crewsaw said.

Minority Contractors

The recently organized Columbus Minority Contractors Association, Inc. has elected officers. Leroy Robinson of Domestic Home Maintenance is president. Herschel Butler of SURGE, Inc. was elected vice president.

Other officers are Yusuf Ash-Shaheed of Tomorrow's Material and Supply, secretary, and Roger Mason of A&A Plumbing, treasurer. Jalilah Haqq, minority business enterprise officer for the Central Ohio Transit Authority (COTA) was elected to serve as a consultant to the Board of Directors of the contractors.

Ms. Haqq said a proposal will be made to the City of Columbus to receive funding through the Community Block Grant Funds to staff the organization.

The organization was formed to stimulate greater participation by minorities in contracts let in Central Ohio. For information about the organization, contact Ms. Haqq at 228-3831.

Ohio Guard Honors State Rep. Rankin

State Rep. Helen Rankin was recently honored with a Buckeye Colonel Certificate on behalf of the Ohio National Guard and Governor James A. Rhodes.

The Buckeye Colonel certificate is the highest award the Ohio National Guard presents to a civilian and it is signed by both the Adjutant General and the Governor.

The award was presented to Rep. Rankin by Col. John Siemer (Ret.) in appreciation for her outstanding efforts toward getting House Bill 508 passed. The Bill made it possible for not only commissioned officers, but any noncommissioned officer or warrant officer to be able to swear in National Guard members.

The Bill had to be carried through on an emergency clause in order to meet new military criteria by July 1, 1979. Her efforts made it possible to have the Bill passed and effective by June 27, 1979.

As a result of the passage of Bill 508 many dollars were saved by the state of Ohio and the National Guard. The Ohio National Guard sincerely appreciates the great service Rep. Rankin has rendered.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE Helen Rankin is being presented with a Buckeye Colonel Certificate by Ret. Col. John Siemer, in appreciation for her efforts to get House Bill 508 passed. The award was presented on behalf of both the Ohio National Guard and Gov. James A. Rhodes.
